Weekly Review

This week in KG Prep we played bongo drums in Jamaica, painted rocks like they did in ancient Puerto Rico, explored volcanoes in El Salvador, went scuba diving in Honduras and learned all about Cuba's history with coffee while making coffee playdoh.

In STEM this week students got to experiment with baking soda, vinegar, and food coloring. This experiment allowed students to further their knowledge about cause and effect. Students were able to explain what they thought was going to happen when adding the ingredients together and then were able to see the effects of adding as much vinegar as they wanted to the baking soda and food coloring. When students completed their experiment, they were asked to work together to build a maze and then program the Bee-Bot to complete the maze that was built.
