The Week Ahead

We are excited to start our adventure into week 4! We are still accepting donations of cardboard tubes if you have any. Here are a few pictures of what we created in Week 3.

The Mosaic on the door

Our painted Taino rocks

Our collaborative tropical bird

We are going to have so much fun this week! On Monday we are going to spend some time learning about Jaguars and Romero Britto art. Tuesday we will talk about the tropical rainforest, and Wednesday the students have a chance to learn all about the story behind Dream Catchers. On Thursday we will take a tour of the Andes Mountains and we will finish off the week on Friday by learning about Machu Picchu.

We will also be focusing on the different parts of books. So far, we have learned front/back covers, the title, and the jacket.
